

I thought the point of life was to be happy, help others and make the world a better place.

I guess you're right, but we all can't become teachers.

